Subject: Muskego Website

Hey Steve,

So great talking today! I'm really excited to work on this.

In the meantime, here's what I'll need from you to get started:

1. Photos — the cabin photos you mentioned, plus anything you have of the property, lake, dock, lodge, etc. Even iPhone shots are fine to start. We can swap in better ones as you get them.
2. Cabin details — I pulled the cabin info from your current site, so I have a starting point for names, descriptions, and amenities. If anything has changed or you want to update the copy, just let me know and I'll work from whatever you send.
3. Contact info — I'll set up the site so guests can call you directly to book. Just confirm the best phone number to list.
4. Domain — do you own the domain (muskegopoint.com)? If so, would you like to deploy to the existing one?
5. Any existing branding — logo, color preferences, or a general vibe you're going for. Even just "I like how X resort looks" is helpful. Any info on your target audience is helpful.
6. About the resort — anything you want guests to know about the history, the owners, what makes Muskego Point special.
7. Timeline — what's your target date to have the site live? I want to make sure we're building toward the right window.

Once I have everything from you, I can turn this around in about 5 business days. Before anything goes live, I'll send you a full mockup for review so you can request any changes — nothing gets published until you're happy with it.

Here's that landing page mock up again: <https://muskego-point-resort.vercel.app/>

No rush on all of this at once, just send what you have and we'll build from there.

Thanks again, Steve. Really looking forward to it.

Saylor

Hey Steve,

Got what you've shared: the cabin, fishing, and lodge photos, and I have the phone number and domain.

A couple things I still need before I can start building:

- Colors: the logo is black and white, so I need a little more visual direction to work with. Even just "we use dark green and gold" or a photo that feels like the vibe of the resort works.
- Content: anything you want guests to know about the history of Muskego Point, the owners, what makes it special.

You can reply with those details here or however is convenient for you.

Thanks!

Hey Steve,

Just circling back on my last email.

Once I have the color direction and a bit of background on Muskego Point, I can get started on the build.

No rush on a full write-up. A few bullet points or a voice memo works great too. I just want to make sure the site feels like yours.

Let me know if it's easier to hop on a quick call.

Thanks!

Saylor

Hi Saylor — Don't wait for info to update the site. You have a good idea and direction. We can update as we go. Color can be up to you, but a forest green would be fine, otherwise B&W for now is fine with the logo. I am waiting on descriptions, but time will go to die if we keep waiting (these can be simple updates).

This all sounds good. I'll be off Thursday and will get history info to you then.
